PRESS RELEASE

EDWARD LEHMAN DISCUSSES LEGAL DEVELOPMENT ON CHINESE TELEVISION

Beijing, China – March 10, 2008 – Edward Lehman of Lehman, Lee & Xu recently discussed the topic of “Legal Construction and Transition” on China Central Television's popular English-language television show, Dialogue. Mr. Lehman was joined by professor He Jiahong of Renmin University and Dr. Charles Lee, founder and chairman of Lee Enterprises.

China's annual meeting of the National People's Congress and Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference are currently underway and the show discussed the work report presented by Supreme Court President Xiao Yang on Monday. In the speech, Xiao Yang highlighted China's progress in stamping out corruption in the government. The Dialogue episode focused on the topic of anti-corruption. Mr. Lehman was very supportive of China's efforts to curb corruption and encouraged further progress by legislators and judiciary.

“Dialogue provides fair and comprehensive analysis of current affairs within the framework of cross-cultural and multi-disciplinary comparisons. Chinese and foreign guests openly express their opinions on issues making headlines in China and around the world. Through frank discussions, and sometimes heated debates, viewers are encouraged to reach their own conclusions.”
