PRESS RELEASE

SINKY TANG APPOINTED TO JIANG'AN DISTRICT COURT

Shanghai – April 14, 2008 – Lehman, Lee & Xu associate Sinky Tang has been appointed to Shanghai's Jiang'an District Court. A rising young legal star in Shanghai, Ms. Tang hails from Hunan Province.

Ms. Tang's appointment to the Jiang'an District Court is a result of Lehman, Lee & Xu's continued commitment to cultivating legal talent in China. In 2007, Ms. Tang received a Lehman Lee & Xu Scholarship for her L. L. M. studies at Shanghai Jiaotong University on the basis of academic achievement, research ability and community involvement.

Commenting on Ms. Tang's selection, managing director Edward Lehman said: "We are very pleased to have supported Sinky Tang during this promising beginning to her career, whose appointment to Jiang'an District Court is a testament to her obvious talent and ability. Lehman, Lee & Xu has a long record of fostering success for young lawyers and preparing them to achieve both within the firm and in the judiciary, and we are proud to congratulate Ms. Tang on her move to the Shanghai Jiang'an District Court."

Home to thousands of foreign-invested businesses, Shanghai Jiang'an District is one of the most important districts in China to business interests, issuing thousands of rulings on an annual basis that affect the China operations of many multi-national corporations. Lehman, Lee & Xu routinely represents clients with success in the Shanghai Jiang'an District.

Lehman, Lee & Xu is a prominent Chinese corporate law firm and trademark and patent agency with offices in Beijing, Shanghai, Shenzhen, Hong Kong, Macau, and Mongolia. Managed by long-time China resident and recognized China corporate law expert Mr. Edward E. Lehman, the firm grants scholarships to dozens of students nationwide each year.
